Most trips are from 1 to 2 hours in duration and cost $15.00 to $45.00 per person depending on the boat and port chosen. Trips are available at Coos Bay, Winchester Bay, Newport, Depoe Bay, and Tillamook.

Best Times: Early Spring - Late Fall. During the winter months of December through February and the spring months of March through May, vessels head offshore to find the migrating pods of Gray Whales. In winter the whales are heading south from Alaskan waters, their summer feeding grounds, to the shallow warm water lagoons off northern Mexico. In the Spring they are heading north back to Alaska. The Grays pass Depoe Bay in large numbers much like a long train throughout the migration period.

Locations: Whale watching trips are available out of Astoria, Garibaldi, Newport, Depoe Bay, Finding and following these giants of the ocean is an unforgettable experience for young and old alike! Blowing water spouts 10 to 12 feet high make them easy to spot, especially in the spring and fall. They love to feed and play just off the entrances of many bays in Oregon and Washington.

While aboard you'll hear facts and stories about the whales narrated over the ship's P.A. system by our knowledgeable Captains. We are always happy to answer questions and explore the ocean wonders with you. Our experienced captains bring the vessels close to the pods for excellent sightings - often including large spouts, whale backs, and deep dives with excellent whale tail showings. If you're one of the lucky ones you'll see a breach (photo below), where the whales heave up to three quarters of their 45 foot 40 ton bodies clear out of the water. Absolutely spectacular.
